

Position: Associate Director of Doctoral Training

Department: Training and Community Engagement

Start date: Immediate

Location: Chicago

The Adler School of Professional Psychology is seeking a full time Associate Director of Training to join the Department of Training and Community Engagement. Primary responsibilities include: Placement of doctoral students on clinical practicum, development of new clinical training sites for doctoral and master's students, evaluation of current clinical training sites, on-going communication with community partners, advisement of doctoral students about practicum and internship selection and placement, participation in training department activities that contribute to overall academic mission, and participation in Academic Affairs general faculty and program specific activities.

Applicants must have a Doctorate in Psychology from an APA accredited program, and licensure as a clinical psychologist in the state of Illinois. Applicants should demonstrate a strong record of clinical experience, experience in training graduate students, involvement in scholarship and professional activities, and service in the community. Ideal candidates will have strong organizational skills, ability to manage details accurately, teaching experience, demonstrate a high level of professionalism toward students, faculty and staff, administration, and community partners, and have strong communication and interpersonal skills.

Application materials: Letter of interest, CV, 3 references, graduate transcripts. Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position has been filled.

Applications can be sent to:

Ms. Carol Davis, Training Department Manager
The Adler School of Professional Psychology
17 N. Dearborn St.
Chicago, IL 60602

The Adler School is an independent, not for profit, graduate school that has been providing education and training in mental health since 1952. The Adler School is particularly committed to training students to become socially responsible practitioners, by working with marginalized and underserved populations in the community. The Adler School is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer.