FULL-TIME CORE FACULTY POSITIONS
ARGOSY UNIVERSITY, SAN FRANCISCO BAY AREA
AVAILABLE FEBRUARY, 2010

The American School of Professional Psychology at Argosy University, San Francisco Bay Area seeks interested candidates for Core Faculty positions in its APA-Accredited Clinical Psychology Program. The campus is located in the city of Alameda, CA, on an island in the beautiful San Francisco Bay, convenient for commuting from multiple locations in the area. The Clinical Psychology Program is seeking psychologists with either a PhD or PsyD degree who are interested in a full-time core faculty position in a practitioner-scholar program.

Overall this position is responsible for coordinating the Clinical Psychology Program's clinical assessment activities and supports the continuous evaluation and improvement of student learning through consultation with faculty, program chair and various community agencies.

Responsibilities include:

- ◆ Working with the assessment coordinator and administrative department heads in providing the clinical supervision to ensure effective psychological assessment activities
- ◆ Planning and offering appropriate development activities for faculty and staff in the area of psychological assessment in order to help to foster a collaborative culture of continuous improvement university program and services
- ◆ Providing and coordinating supervision of practicum students in the area of psychological assessment activities
- ◆ Systematically and continuously monitoring data collection to ensure that program activities are related to learning outcomes and documenting the uses of the findings for corrective action, improvement and accountability.
- ◆ Working closely with the Clinical Training Office and BAPIC in outreaching to the greater community with regard to developing, maintaining and growing assessment activities
- ◆ Keeping abreast of current concepts and best practices in assessment

- ◆ Teaching the equivalent of four doctoral level courses (including providing assessment supervision) in Clinical Psychology.
- ◆ Providing strong mentorship and advising to students
- ◆ Participation in faculty governance including serving on department and campus committees

Argosy University has a strong commitment to diversity and seeks candidates with experience and a preference for working in a very diverse educational environment. Minority-group candidates are strongly urged to apply. Applicants with a clinical psychology degree must have a doctorate from an APA-accredited program that is regionally accredited and be licensed in California. Doctoral level teaching and relevant research experience is desired and rank is based upon experience.

It is desired that candidates have three years of experience in child and adult assessment; are current on best practices in assessment and measures; familiar with threshold measures in assessment; familiar with and have supervised experience in neuropsychological assessment methods; have a minimum of one year of clinical supervisor experience; have excellent skills in data collection, management and analysis; have demonstrated the ability to write clear and concise reports and to present technical information in a clear and meaningful way to a variety of audiences; have familiarity and a facility with program-and-institutional-assessment software support systems (e.g., Microsoft Office Excel and Access). Candidates should also possess a leadership attitude with strong collaborative, interpersonal and team-building style for establishing and maintain collegial working relationships with faculty and administrators at the University and at least one year experience managing psychologists.

Interested candidates should fax, mail, or e-mail a letter of interest, three professional letters of recommendation, an official transcript of doctoral education, and curriculum vitae to:
