Agency Description:

CCA is a WASC-accredited four year undergraduate and graduate college devoted to the visual arts, design, writing and architecture. The college offers BFA, BArch, MFA and MA degrees. Programs include fine arts, graphic design, industrial design, fashion, writing, curatorial studies, sculpture, animation, glass and jewelry/metal work. The counseling service offers counseling, psychological education programs and related services to students and consultation to faculty/staff. Services are provided on both Oakland and San Francisco campuses.

Agency Mission /Objective:

To provide psychological services to the college community in Oakland and San Francisco in support of the creative endeavors of CCA students.

Type of Training:

Long-term Inpatient Individual Family Crisis Neuropsych
 Brief Outpatient Group Couples Assessment Consultation
 Infant-Family Therapy

Theoretical Orientation:

We endeavor to provide a rich, supportive, depth-oriented learning environment for interns. Training includes two hours of individual and two hours of group supervision and four hours of didactic training per week. Didactic trainings focus on topics relating to the college population, primarily from a contemporary psychoanalytic orientation. Trainings include guest speakers and case presentations to experts in the Bay Area community. Group supervision involves process notes and active participation from the intern group.

Population:

College students, ages 17-50, 70% female, average client age is 26. 40% minorities. The CCA population is unusual due to the focus on creativity; students are actively searching for ways to approach work from a unique, unconventional perspective.
